Some Members of the Order Reported to Be Dissatisfied.

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 16 .- It is stated that there is much dissatisfaction among the members of the order of Chosen Friends, and that large numbers are withdrawing from the organization at many places. It is feared that unless radical measures are adopted that the order will soon cease to exist. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Kaiser, a prominent member of the order in this city, speaking of the matter to-day, said: "The cause of all this dissatisfaction is the action taken by the Supreme Council last September. It was decided then that in the future only onehalf of the face value of the insurance policies would be paid, plus the amount paid in by the insured, instead of the full face value, as was previously done."

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 16 .- A heavy electric motor car, containing between twenty and thirty passengers, went through the draw of the Central viaduct at 7:45 o'clock this evening and dropped one hundred and eight feet to the river below. It is a horror the like of which has never occurred here before. The Central viaduct is a huge stilt bridge, three thousand feet long, made of iron. It connects the Heights and the prosperous residence section on the South a sudden it plunged over into the river. Side with the business center of the city. The South Side street-railroad passes over the bridge, and on either side of the draw there | draw just as I had given the signal to is a safety switch, which, unless the conductor alights and holds up a handle, will send a car into the gutter instead of allowing it to go on the draw. HOW IT HAPPENED. First reports from the scene of the dis aster seem to place the blame on the con ductor. They were to the effect that the ill-fated motor car, containing between twenty and thirty people, approached the draw just as a vessel was nearing it, and the bridge attendants had closed the big Home," and the four hundred touched el- iron gates and were preparing to swing bows with the populace in getting out from | the draw. As is the rule, the car stopped and the conductor went forward to release the He must have been blinded electric lights, for eyewitness declares that although ready in motion, the conductor raised the current and the car shot forward and struck the gates with a crash. There was only a moment's pause, and then the heavy car ground its way through the wreckage and plunged over the brink into the black abyss, amid the screams and frantic struggles of the passengers, who at the first intimation of danger rushed for the rear door The car struck the water with a great splash, and then there was silence. Soon men began to rush shouting about, and police patrol wagons and ambulances were soon flying to the spot in response to telephone calls. The alarm which was sent out brought to the scene half a dozen ambulances, the fir boats and the members of the life-saving crew with grappling irons. Within five minutes after the accident the surface of the river revealed nothing of the terrible tragedy that had just been enacted. The waters had closed over the car and its passengers, and the work of rescuing the bodies in the uncertain light was slow indeed. At 9 o'clock half a dozen bodies that had evidently floated out of the car and risen to the surface were taken from the river and carried to the various morgues. The news of the terrible accident spread like wildfire through the city, and a large crowd soon collected on the bridge and along the banks of the river. They could do nothing, however, but watch the slow work of grappling

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 16 .- The news from the different provinces of Asia Minor continues to be grave, confirming beyond oubt the impression which has prevailed here for a long time past that the movement has now assumed proportions which have placed it beyond the control of the Turkish authorities, even if the latter were really desirous of punishing the Mussulmans for massacreing Armenians. In fact, it is considered very doubtful whether the Turkish troops would fire on Mussulmans if they should be ordered to do so. It is known that there are about eight hundred victims alarm by telephoning to the police and fire of the Kharput massacre, and that eight of the twelve buildings belonging to the American missionaries there were sacked and burned in spite of the assurances of the Porte to the United States embassador, Alexander W. Terrell, that the lives and property of the Americans would be protected, and although it was announced that Turkish gendarmes had been detailed to guard the mission. The American missionaries, however, escaped and are now in a place of safety. Mr. Terrell has notified the Porte that the United States will hold it responsible for the lives of the missionaries. ARRESTS AT CONSTANTINOPLE. The police here continue making unexplained arrests and not a day passes without revolutionary rosters being placarded on the walls or distributed on the streets. The real state of affairs cannot be ascertained by the representatives of the einbassies, much less by representatives of the press, but it is currently stated that 400 softas (Turkish theological students) have recently been arrested. The cause of their imprisonment is said to be their refusal to return to their homes without receiving the money which is due them from the government for their expenses in undergoing their course of study; but another and more version of the students proved to be implicated in posting the revolutionary placards continually found in and about the public thoroughfares of this city. The Porte is also said to be very anxious about the attitude of the military cadets. The latter are said to be strongly imbued with the revolutionary spirit which prevails in the army and navy, and it is reported that the government has decided to transfer the Pancaldi military school to the barracks at Scutari.

No definite action is known to have been taken by the embassadors of the powers; but it is reported that they will join in a note to the Porte informing the government of the Sultan that in spite of remonstrances and recommendations of the powers, matters have now reached a stage in Asia Minor where it is evident that the Sultan's authority is not sufficient to quell the repeated disturbances which are breaking out, and it has become necessary for the powers, in the interests of Christianity and humanity, to put an end to these disorders by occupying jointly various portions of the Turkish empire until order is fully restored and a better system of government is inaugurated. In order to carry out the policy of the powers the most powerful fleet ever gathered together is road this morning. The dead man was firebeing assembled at Salonica bay.
